

With the fox gone to ground, the huntsman blew a merry tune on his horn and let us dismount to congratulate the hounds on their good work.

